READ THIS FIRST — HOW POINTS WORK IN THIS GAME

Before the rules, understand what every Badminton player is playing for. HAH Season 9 runs on THREE kinds of points — every point is recorded against the player's HC9 ID and shows on their Player Report Card on the championship website.

#	Points Type	How You Earn It	Points
1	Participation Points	Just register and play — every player earns these. Men: 100 • Women (On Total Participation) - Points Awarded to City / Zone Leader	100
2	Winning Points	Finish in the Top 4 of this game — fixed points by final position (see the breakup below) Points Awarded to Player	50 / 30 / 20 / 10

Winning Points — position-wise breakup (same in every game):

Final Position	Winner (1st)	Runner-Up (2nd)	3rd Place	4th Place
Winning Points	50	30	20	10

Why Winning Points matter: Winning Points from every game are added up into the player's TOTAL score. This total is counted at the City level and the National level only — and it decides the Best Male Athlete and Best Female Athlete of the championship. The more games you play and win, the higher your total climbs. Play more games, win more points, take the athlete title.

Example: a woman who registers for Badminton (200 participation), wins her category (90 skill points) and finishes 1st (50 winning points) earns 340 points from this one game alone.

This 3-point system is identical across all Season 9 games. City Leaders and Zone Leaders additionally earn credits for every registration they drive. Point values are subject to final approval by the HAH Organizing Committee.
